Dominican Republic Mission Trip ($1900)

Serve God's people through mission work in the Dominican Republic! We visit the DR for 5 days through the service organization, A Door to Hope. We have an opportunity to serve the impoverished village communities through construction projects, food distribution and teaching a Vacation Bible School. Outside of our missions, we will be able to experience the local culture and landscape that makes the DR such a spectacular place. We will also focus on developing the depth of our own individual faith journeys. Join us and do God's work! Cost includes: all housing, transportation, most meals, gratuities, and projects.

- Sponsors: Matt Golenor, Hannah Santi
- Number of participants: 15-30 students; grades 10-12 only
- Cost: $1900 (estimated due to cost of airfare)
- $750 non-refundable deposit due at registration

History and Culture in Germany and Austria ($4325-$4523)

We will begin our 8-day journey at our first stop in Munich where we will tour places such as the Palace of Nymphenburg, the Marienplatz, the Deutsches Museum, and Neuschwanstein Castle. We will then head to Dachau where we will tour the museum and then complete our service project. As we head to Salzburg, Austria, we will tour places such as Salzburg Cathedral, Mirabell Gardens, the Salt Mines, Fortress Hohensalzburg, and Melk Abbey. We will end our journey in Vienna, where we will tour Schönbrunn Palace, St Stephens Cathedral, and Prater Park. For those who love to ski, they will be given a day to ski through the Alps. For those who do not, they will have the option of a walking tour in Vienna and an afternoon to explore this beautiful city. The price includes flights, hotels, bus/train transportation, all breakfasts and dinners, tips, tickets to all tours and museums, and Vienna's giant ferris wheel ride. Skiing is optional and not included in trip price; this cost of $150/skier includes lift tickets, ski rentals, and train ticket.

Immersive Science Adventure in the Bahamas ($3964/$4369)

This course offers the exciting opportunity for students to experience a week-long field study, which includes 3 boat days, 2 north land days, and 1 south land day. Boat days are spent on the ocean snorkeling or scuba diving the third largest fringing barrier coral reef in the world, the Tongue of the Ocean, and oceanic blue holes. Land days explore the unique landscape filled with seven distinct plant communities, the largest concentration of freshwater blue holes in the world the endemic birds and reptiles, and the local artisans and community members of Andros. While at the station, guests can enjoy home cooked meals from our local staff, beach volleyball, basketball, ping pong, or swim on the beach. It's the ideal way to unplug and take a break from the constant buzz of our digital world. Most field study trips involve educational groups with a focus on Marine Science, Geology, Botany, Climate Change, or other fields of science, as well as social science topics.

Students will stay at Forfar Field Station, a rustic former dive resort nestled in a beachfront coconut grove on the east coast of Andros, the largest of the Bahamian Islands. Forfar Field Station is owned and operated by International Field Studies (IFS), a non-profit founded in 1970 dedicated to providing environmental education, scientific experiences, and cultural awareness through experiential learning. Forfar Field Station is named after Archie Forfar who originally built the field station as a dive resort in the 1960's. Forfar has educational staff who live on the island year-round facilitating guided field excursions, academic lectures, and general assistance for specific trip needs.
